

The Daily Courant.

Monday, July 7. 1718.

London, July 7.
On Saturday arriv'd a Mail from Holland.

From the Amst. Gazette, dated July 13.
Genoa, June 26.

WE perceive nothing yet of the Approach of the Spanish Fleet, which sail'd from Barcelona the 18th.

Vienna, June 29. We have heard nothing from Passarowitz since the Arrival of the Express, who brought the News of the favourable Dispositions of the Ottoman Plenipotentiaries for Peace. And we wait now with Impatience for the Return of the Express who was sent to Prince Eugene with the last Resolutions of his Imperial Majesty for the Conclusion of the Treaty; after which, the Court will take also a final Resolution concerning the Affairs of Italy, and will name the General to command our Army there. Prince Leuvenstein, Governour of the Milanese, solicites the Court to send him a Succour of 4000 Men; the rather, because there is Reason to fear, that the Spaniards will make a Descent on the side of Final, and that they will be join'd by the Piemontese Troops.

From the Amst. Courant, dated July 12.

Vienna, June 29. The Princes of Bavaria and Saxony have visited one another, and the latter entertained the former on Monday last with great Magnificence. We have nothing new concerning the Treaty, except that the Courier who carried the Emperour's final Orders, was sent away from hence the 27th, the Effect whereof we impatiently expect. In the mean time, a Report is spread, that the Turkish Plenipotentiaries have granted to us a free Passage upon the Save. We hear by Letters from Belgrade, that the Grand Imperial Army was broken up from Sardinia, and that under General Merzi from Cuba. Some thought they would march to Bosnia, but others judg'd that they design'd to approach Nissa and Widin, because a great Number of Falcines were brought to Orsova. When the Venetian Plenipotentiary was also admitted to the Conferences, he in his Turn, made a long Speech concerning the Interests of his Republick, which the Turkish Plenipotentiaries sufficiently shew'd themselves tired with, and therefore made their Answer the shorter; for they only said, that since the Emperour honour'd the Republick with his Protection, the Porte had been willing to afford their Concurrence and good Will towards it; but they afterwards besought the Imperial Plenipotentiaries, not to lay the Interests of the Republick too much to Heart, because the Conclusion of the Treaty might thereby be much delay'd; which 'tis not improbable will be comply'd with.

From the Amst. Gazette, dated July 12.

Paris, July 4. The Answer which the Duke Regent gave to the Representation made to his Royal Highness the 19th of June, by the first President, and the Deputies of the Parliament, was as follows:

"I did not send to the Parliament the last Edict concerning the Coin, because I thought I ought not to do it; for the Court of the Mint having been establish'd as a superior Court, has a sufficient Authority in such sort of Matters; and since 1659, which is one of the Examples which you have cited, there has been no Edict concerning the Coin sent to the Parliament, except that of December, 1713, at the Beginning of the Rencency, which I was willing to send, in Defence and Friendship to the Parliament. I shall however, cause the Examples you have cited to be examined. With respect to the Inconveniences, I have examin'd and weigh'd them, but I could not find them available enough to hinder the passing the Edict. I shall cause them to be examin'd again, in Order to remedy them. For the third Article, which is the supersceding it,

"the Work is too far advanc'd; it would be an utter Impossibility to stop it. There are a great Quantity of the new Species distributed, and Debts necessary to be paid.

Two Days ago, the Deputies of the Parliament went to the Thuilleries, and his Majesty, by the Keeper of the Great Seal, made the following Answer to their Remonstrance.

"The King has caus'd the Remonstrances of his Parliament to be examin'd, has very graciously receiv'd them, and is well pleas'd to see their Submission therein. He shall receive with Pleasure the Advices that are given him, provided they tend not to share with, or limit his Authority. The Edicts have no Need of registering to give them the Force of Law. The Authority of the Law is in the Person of the Legislator, and the Registering serves only to publish and notify by the Courts the Edicts to the Jurisdinctions that are subordinate to them: There are divers Examples of Edicts and Letters Patents address'd to the Bayliwicks and Seneschalcies inferior to Parliament.

"The Debts of the State being contracted by the State, ought to be discharg'd by those who compose it; it very ill becomes certain Persons to pretend, that by their Rank and Dignities they ought to be exempt from contributing to it. The Edict in Question has been maturely examin'd: 'Tis the best Means that can be found for discharging the Debts of the State. It hurts not the Publick, but those only who contract to their Profit by Obligatory Acts. It relieves the Debtors, by encreasing their Revenues, and the Price of the Lands, which are the principal Part of the Revenues of the State: And besides, facilitates the Payment of the Impositions, as appears by the Receipt in the Month of June, which is much above the other Months.

"It were to be wish'd, that the Examples cited by the Parliament, and the Times which they have produc'd, were in eternal Oblivion.

"The King forbids all Assemblies tending to a Want of Submission, and all Convocations without his Permission. He orders the Registering of the Letters Patents upon the Arret of Council, whereby the Cognizance of Differences concerning the Coin is call'd before the Council: And will take the necessary Expedients, that they may be speedily judg'd, to the End that his Subjects may not suffer.

From the Amsterdam Gazette.

Amsterdam, July 10. We have received Letters from Vienna, dated the 2d Instant, by the Way of Saxony, which confirm, that the Negotiations of Peace at Passarowitz were so far advanc'd, that they expected every Moment an Express with the News of the Treaty's being sign'd. That nevertheless Prince Eugene being return'd to the Army, had given the necessary Orders for decamping, in Order to let the Turks see that he was in a Condition to begin the Operations of the Campaign, if they did not presently sign the Peace. And 'tis added, that the Army was actually in March, as was also the Body under Count Merzi.

Letters from Petersburg bring Advice, that the Czar has, by his Plenipotentiaries at Aland, demanded, that the King of Sweden resign to him Livonia, Esthonia, the two Carelia's, and Ingermania, and that his Allies be admitted into the Peace; offering to surrender all Finland, except Wyborg. To which the Plenipotentiaries of Sweden, answer'd, that the King their Master would never agree to such Demands, and that they had especial Orders to admit none of the Allies into the Peace; which has oblig'd the Czar's Plenipotentiaries to send an Express to Petersburg. And 'tis written from Lebeck, that the Master of a Ship at

The King of Prussia was two Days at Memel, but the Czar could not come thither, by reason of many Affairs that requir'd his Presence at Petersburg; and so his Prussian Majesty is gone from thence to return to Berlin.

On Saturday arriv'd also a Mail from France, but the Paris News Letter brings no manner of Advice of the Spanish Fleet. The Letters from Barcelona of the 26th past mentioning only, that they were out of Sight of that Port the 20th of June, since when they had heard nothing of them.

A certain Cure for Founder'd Horses, by an excellent Chymical Secret, which immediately takes away Pains and Anguish in their Feet, and all burning Heat and swelling, Dryness, suppling and cooling them to Admiration, and causing them to become kindly Mellow and Tidy, and the Hinds to grow naturally willing, so as not to pinch them, making those Horses that before could scarce stand, or when they did, stand with all their four Feet crumpling up together, set to stand and tread so freely and boldly with-out the least Pain, Uneasiness or Lamentation.
Those that are bit a little Not in their Feet, is presently loosened and recovers; and those exceeding bad, is immediately Cured in a short Time, making them as perfectly firm and sound in their Feet as ever, as the Author has for many Years past experienced, I sold
